ABSTRACT

This document is a catalog of the adult education sound and videotape recordings available at the E. S. Bird Library at Syracuse University. The collection was gathered for use by practitioners and educators of adults who are conducting research. In the library collection, each media item has been catalogued by title, series, subject, author, date, and speaker, using the same subject terms as materials for print. Along with recordings of programs conducted for adults, the project also contains recordings of adult education history for use by scholars of the adult and continuing education field. The oral history collection includes interviews with adult educators and recordings of speeches, conferences, and discussions. The four sections of the catalogue contain lists of sound recordings, video recordings, video cassette recordings, and an index of authors' names. Title, author, source, running time, and call numbers are given for the recordings. Information on how the recordings were collected is provided, along with suggestions for their use. (KC)

RESOURCES FOR EDUCATORS OF ADULTS

Sound and Video Recording Collection - Bird Library

The media collection including sound and video recordings has been an integral part of the Library of Continuing Education (LCE) since 1961, when the Fund for Adult Education contributed both its print and nonprint materials. This substantial addition to the existing collection of LCE, now Syracuse University Resources for Educators of Adults (SUREA), is to provide library and related resources in the field of adult and continuing education for educators of adults who are conducting research as well as for practitioners.

Sustained, systematic efforts over the years have made the print materials ever more readily accessible. These efforts continue. Particularly in the past few years they have been processed into the Ernest S. Bird Library. Each media item has been catalogued by title, series, subject, author, date, speaker, or discussant (where available), using the same subject terms as materials for print. The cards are filed in the main card catalog of the Bird Library through December 1980. Beginning in 1981 access is through the SULIRS on line catalog. Thus the user may consult the same catalogs for both print and media material.

The following comments relate to the purpose of this collection of sound and video recordings.

1. The primary purpose of the oral history project is the collection of sound and video recordings for research by scholars in the field of adult and continuing education.
2. The collection also includes recordings of programs conducted for adults. These may be used by research persons and also by practitioners who are developing programs.
3. In most cases the only data about the contents on a cassette are what is provided by sound. Sometimes there is a written comment on a cassette. Consequently the interviewer, moderator, convener, or presenter is not always identified and when identified the name may be subject to interpretation. Likewise titles, events, dates and other data may not be complete. Names, events, dates and other data continue to be checked for accuracy and completeness.
4. In instances where the data have been used as the basis for a publication bibliographical data about the publication are given (if identified).
5. In cases where the tape is not clear or may be incomplete, this information is given (if identified).

The original material or the copy are held in the Media Department. The user may borrow the media material by the same procedures as for print material. The library will make a cassette-form copy of the open reel, record or cassette. The cassette-form copy may then be borrowed by the user through the Media Desk or through inter-library loan. Listening facilities are in the library carrels.

Educators of adults may also note that the Omnibus Series is held at Syracuse University and is readily available for use. A description and shelf list are in "The Omnibus Series."

Oral History

The oral history collection is a part of the Syracuse University collection. The following description provides the history, nature and content of the oral history projects and series which have been identified.

For this purpose the term oral history is the tape recording (sometimes video as well) of reminiscences about which the narrator (interviewer) can speak from first-hand knowledge. Usually such information is captured through well planned interviews in question and answer form. Some of the items in this collection were taped by the interviewers for specific purpose but nevertheless have some value for researchers.*

Syracuse University has long been engaged in oral history projects involving educators of adults. It has made a concerted effort to identify all sound recordings and video recordings of interviews and other items that will be of value to research workers in the field of adult and continuing education. The program is part of the "Adult Education--Sound and Video Recordings." The collection, limited to the English language, is described below.

1. The oral history program at Syracuse University began in the early 1960's. Leading educators of adults who visited University College of Syracuse University were interviewed by Alexander N. Charters and recorded on tapes. The tapes are available in the Media Department in Bird Library.
2. Some of the presentations and other sessions of the Faculty Seminars sponsored by University College (1952-1964) were recorded on tape. These tapes are available in the Media Department of Bird Library.
3. From 1969 until 1972, Alexander N. Charters enlisted the advice and support of Dr. James Whipple, an historian, and then Assistant Director of the Center for the Study of Liberal Education of Adults; Dr. Harlan Copeland, then Assistant Professor of Adult Education at Syracuse University; and Mr. Roger DeCrow, a librarian, and then Director of ERIC Clearinghouse on Adult Education at Syracuse University. Dr. Doris Chertow, sociologist and then Editor of Syracuse University Publications in Continuing Education also participated.

Several educators of adults were interviewed at the 1969 Galaxy Conference of Adult Education Organizations held in Washington, D.C., December 6-9, 1969. They included Dr. Thurman White, Director of Extension, University of Oklahoma; Dr. Hamilton Stillwell, Dean of Extension, Wayne State University; and Dr. Lloyd Schram, Dean of Extension, University of Washington. Other persons interviewed on the project included Dr. John Holden, Dean of the Graduate School, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C.; and Dr. Howard McClusky, Professor of Education, University of Michigan. The records of the interviews, plans and review sessions are preserved. Some funds for travel, tapes and other expenses were provided and the subjects donated their time and effort.

4. In the early 1970's Mr. Joseph W. Jacques conducted a doctoral dissertation "Recollections and Reflections of Professors of Adult Education: Early 20th Century Leaders and Pioneers in the Field. An Oral History Project," Florida State University, 1973. Some funds for travel, tapes, and other expenses were provided by Syracuse University to assist Mr. Jacques in his project. A copy of the dissertation proposal and the microfilm of the dissertation are held at Syracuse University. Copies of the tapes of the interviews are being collected by Syracuse University. The persons interviewed were professors of adult education. They were: Dr. Robert

5. Some sessions of the National Adult Education Conference (NAEC) annual conferences have been recorded. Syracuse University is identifying and collecting these tapes.
6. Some of the conferences and programs sponsored by the Johnston Foundation at its Wingspread Conference Center, Racine, Wisconsin, have been related to adult and continuing education. Two examples were Wingspread I, preceding the 1969 Galaxy Conference, and Wingspread II, in 1975. Some parts of these conferences and some interviews have been recorded. Some of these tapes have been made available to educators of adults by the Johnston Foundation and some are available in the Syracuse University Media Department.
7. "The Mentors: Educational Values in Transition" was a project conducted by the Department of Adult Education, University of Georgia, in 1974. The educators of adults who were interviewed were: Dr. Paul Essert; Dr. Wilbur Hallenbeck; Dr. Andrew Hendrickson; Dr. Cyril O. Houle; Mr. Herbert Hunsaker; Dr. Howard McClusky, Dr. Paul Sheats, and Dr. Ralph Spence. This project is a significant contribution to the field both in its own right and as a basis for a more comprehensive oral history project. The video tapes, cassettes and printed publications are available in the Media Department. (VC 1008-1012)

8. "Who We Are: What Some Educators of Adults Say About Their Characteristics, Competencies and Roles" is an analysis of individual sound recordings of interviews with 30 educators of adults. Interviews followed a schedule designed for the topic of the research and lasted about one hour. The project was designed and conducted by Dr. Alexander N. Charters and Dr. Ronald Hilton. (6913-01/18)

9. A series of sound and video recordings of presentations on "Toward a Learning Society: Government Policy and the Education of Adults." Convener, William M. Rivera, 1980. Presenters were Mr. Charles Lee; Dr. Norman Kurland: Dr. Leonard P. Oliver; Ms. Miriam Kazanjian.

   "Taking Sides in the Learning Society: Controversial Issues in Education for Adults." Convener, William M. Rivera, 198[illegible] Presenters were Mr. William J. Hilton; Mr. Garrett W. Murphy; Dr. William G. Shannon; and Mr. Warren L. Ziegler.

   The tapes are in the Media Department.

10. Other tapes have been made of individual activities. Included are:

    a) Discussion with Dr. Ernest S. Melby

    b) Collection of 12 tapes used as data for research on "Humanizing Adult Education Research: Five Stories from the 1930's," by Dr. Ronald Hilton.

    c) A collection of over 40 sound recordings which were interviews of educators of adults and others interested in adult education in Canada.

d) Discussion with Dr. Howard McClusky - video recording.

As the above listing illustrates, Syracuse University has a considerable number of recordings or oral history interviews with adult educators and the recordings of speeches, conferences, and discussions concerning adult education.

SUREA continues its processing to improve accessibility of present materials and it is continuing also to add to its collection. Individuals and groups that have items are encouraged to contribute them. Additions of sound and video recording are noted in the regular announcements of the Media Department of Bird Library. The materials, with acknowledgment of donors, will be processed in the same way as the present materials.

Syracuse University as well as educators of adults are grateful to the many contributors to the collection.
